

ABSTRACT

Adjustable aspect ratio optics is described. In one implementation, a second mirror receives light reflected from a first mirror within the adjustable aspect ratio optics. In accordance with the adjustable nature of the aspect ratio optics, either or both of the first mirror and the second mirror may be configured to make an adjustment to change an aspect ratio of an image created by the reflected light.